DESCRIPTION AND ANALYSIS

This well proportioned Classical building is located at one of the ends of the semicircular colonnade of the Hall of Fame. Symmetrical in plan, it forms a part of the campus ensemble and exemplifies the best qualities of the Classical Style in its coherence and monumentality. At the entrance to the building there is a handsome Ionic portico. The portico is preceded by a flight of steps with low risers and deep treads providing an impressive formal approach. Below a richly decorated cornice, which adorns the low roof, the third floor windows of this Roman brick structure are embellished with carved stone garlands.

The importance of this building lies in the simple symmetry of its plan, its stately dignity and good use of materials. With classical motifs employed in the decoration and many fine architectural details, the building is a distinguished representative of its period.

In a letter to the Commission, Dean J. W. Knedler, Jr. of the University College of Arts and Science at New York University endorsed the proposed designations of the four buildings on the University Heights Campus. "They constitute a monumental group which we regard as the heart of the campus.... Such a move would be a gratification not only to the present members of the College community but to its graduate body. More important, it would be a recognition of the superb work done by McKim, Mead and White in collegiate architecture."
